

SKILLYPOT FERRY EARNED $36,857.87 NET IN THE LAST YEAR IT WAS OPERATED

Average Annual Net Earnings for Last Five Years Were $21,441.20—Receipts Dropped From $81 to $18. Over Night—Claim Earning Power of Ferry Fixes Value of Estate Now Depreciated to $30,000.

The trustees under the will of the late Dr. Josiah Hasbrouck seek to recover from the county of Ulster for the lands taken for the approach to the Rondout Creek Bridge some sum as will compensate the estate, not as though the lands taken were ordinary farm lands, but as though they were a part of the Slightsbrough ferry plant. The lands taken have not been used for years as farming lands and have remained idle, but the ferry was a very successful business, netting an average profit during the past five years of over $20,000 annually. Taking the net profits of the ferry as a basis for figuring valuation of the entire property, the trustees seek to recover a proportionate share of this valuation for the lands taken. This is the theory of the claimant, as developed at the hearing on Thursday.

The lands taken by the Esopus approach to the bridge were used for years as farm lands but since the property was in the possession of late Dr. Josiah Hasbrouck it was not farmed. According to the testimony of Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck before the commission which is hearing the claim, this strip of land through which the 100 foot wide right-of-way was taken was held in reserve as a part of the ferry property to be used as a detour or roadway to be used by traffic going to the ferry in case of the public highway leading from Newburgh and the south to the ferry was ever by chance blocked for repairs or otherwise. This road was once blocked, when the state road was being constructed, and for a time traffic was diverted through the Hasbrouck estate in order to pass by the construction work.

The property, which had been in the hands of the Slight family for years, was taken over by Albert M. Norris of Ulster Park in settlement for various mortgages held by him against the Slight property. He ran the ferry for a short time and then sought to get his money out of the property. He sold to the late Dr. Josiah Hasbrouck of Port Ewen, who continued to operate the ferry until his death and then it was continued by the trustees until after the bridge was open. It ran for a time after the opening of the bridge and then was closed, it being a losing proposition after the opening of the bridge.

During the past few years the profits have gradually mounted as automobiles came into common use. The last year of its existence was the most profitable when the gross earnings were $43,126.61 and the net profits were $36,857.87.

The property, which was owned by Dr. Hasbrouck is the 70 acre farm on the west side of the road and the ferry slips on both sides of the creek and another parcel of land on the east side of the road running to the river together with certain docks and water frontage at the ferry where the ferry house now stands. From the creek to the Port Ewen school house, a distance of about 3,000 feet, the lands on the west side of the road are owned practically and wholly by the Hasbrouck estate.

It is the contention of the trustees that if the road was closed between the school house and the ferry there is no other way to reach the ferry except over the Hasbrouck lands. For this emergency the property was held. The strip taken by the county for road purposes crosses this lands over which the trustees claim it would be necessary for them to open a road to keep business flowing to the ferry, and bars off such temporary road. This land they claim was therefore a part of the ferry plant and held by them as such.

Judge Hasbrouck took the witness stand Thursday afternoon and was questioned during the afternoon. He stated that since the building of the state road to the ferry in 1908 business had increased. During the construction work traffic did use the land now taken by the bridge approach and further down the hill traffic was diverted over a side street to the east and across a lot then owned by Dr. Hasbrouck and again back on the state highway near the foot of the hill through another side street.

Mr. Brininger, who appears with Philip Elting for John H. Hasbrouck and Emily S. Burnett, two of the heirs, and for the trustees, asked Judge Hasbrouck if the land bordering on the highway was a part of the ferry plant incidental to its operation and if it was not the claim that the lands taken for the bridge approach were necessary in order that if the road between Port Ewen village and the ferry were closed there would be means provided for continuing traffic to the ferry, and further, if the ferry and ferry terminal were not valuable in connection with the lands to the west by which traffic could be kept going to the water front and in this way linking the two as one plant. He asked Judge Hasbrouck whether he considered it possible as good business to sell the lands to the west without loss to the ferry if the road was ever closed for a time.

To this Judge Hasbrouck replied that the claim of the estate was that it owned a property held in one name, that the only business conducted was that of a ferry. That the ferry

CHILD CASES IN NEW COURT

Variety of Juvenile Cases Brought Before County Judge Fowler in Recently Established Children's Court.

The children's court, which was established by the last legislature and over which County Judge Joseph M. Fowler presides, had a variety of cases before it on Thursday. Ephraim, the four years old son of Marvin Caston and Leola Caston of the town of Wawarsing, was brought into court on the petition of Miss Martha Davis, who is the local agent of the State Charities' Aid Association. From the facts brought out at the hearing it appeared that Leola left her husband and her present whereabouts are unknown. Ephraim was without a home until recently, when he was taken into the home of Arthur Caston of Dairyland, who is an uncle of Marvin, and is now being cared for and brought up there.

All parties to the proceeding appeared except Leola, who could not be found. It was admitted that the home of Arthur Caston at Dairyland, where the four years old child is now being cared for, is a good home, and Miss Davis consented to have the boy remain where he is. An order accordingly was granted by Judge Fowler giving the custody of the child to Mr. Caston and requiring the father to provide for its support, which he was willing to do, pending further order of the court. District Attorney Traver appeared for The People.

Another child, Austin Caston, has been an inmate for some time of the Industrial Home. Marvin Caston claimed he is not the father of Austin, and said he assumed no responsibility for the child and was willing to relinquish all claim. It was determined to allow the child to remain at the Industrial Home instead of sending him to some other institution, and an order to that effect was granted.

Saugetries Boys Mischiefous. Charles Fraleigh, Kenneth Dudley and Vernon Benjamin, three Saugetries boys, were arraigned on a charge of having attempted to enter one of the buildings of the Martin Canine Company, on December 24 last. The boys were paroled in the custody of their parents.

Lavelle Case Held Open. In the case of Harry Lavelle, who was arrested recently on a charge of having attempted to enter David Samuels' fruit store at the corner of Broadway and Cedar street, where his foot was caught in a trap door and held fast until he was arrested, it was admitted that the boy had committed a petty theft previously. Mr. Samuels said he had no desire to prosecute the boy, and the case was held open until January 25th, the boy meanwhile being committed to the custody of his father.

Stone Ridge Case Adjourned. Miss Martha Davis also haled to court a little girl, named Loretta Emily Wynkoop, who some time ago was adopted by a resident of Stone Ridge, who said he intended soon to take a wife unto himself, the adoption papers being approved by Judge Fowler. The marriage has not yet taken place, and according to Miss Davis and several residents of Stone Ridge the child is not being brought up amid proper surroundings. It is said that the adopted father has entertained men at his home who were intoxicated, and that he is illiterate. Except for these charges, the adopted father always has shown an intense interest in the little child, dating a considerable time before the adoption. The adopted father announced he intended to fight the case, and the matter was adjourned until January 13.

Walter Miller, three years old, has been cited by Miss Davis as a neglected child, but there was no appearance on the part of the child or his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller of Ulster Heights. The matter was held open until January 13.

"BLACK FRIDAY" IN GERMANY

General Strike, Fall of Government and Civil War Among Possibilities If France Takes Over Ruhr.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Berlin, Jan. 5.—This is "black Friday" in Germany. Collapse of the Allied reparations conference in Paris and the evident determination of the French to extend their military occupation of German soil, has thrown the whole nation into gloom. If the French carry their threat into execution, it is expected that the Cuno cabinet will fall and civil war may follow.

All sections of the press warn the people to prepare for disaster. Representatives of German trade unions have notified the government that they will actively oppose occupation of the Ruhr by French troops. A general strike throughout the Rhineland is threatened if the French move forward.

German officials were angered by the fact that Karl Bergmann, German economic expert who carried fresh reparations proposals to Paris, was not allowed to deliver them to the Allied conference.

SIMPLE ELECTRIC EGG TEST

Device is Most Desirable Piece of Equipment for Dealer—Pays to Candle at Home.

The egg tester as a necessary or desirable piece of equipment is receiving more attention than ever before. It has always been a handy thing for the farmer and housewife, and an absolutely necessary thing for the egg dealer. With the passing of laws by states and the establishment of regulations by health departments, candling is becoming compulsory for all egg buyers. This means that the country store which formerly accepted at a flat price whatever the producer brought in is compelled to be more particular. It means that the producer who brings in eggs, will decide that it pays him to candle his eggs at home.

For the general farm producer, the tester shown, improvised from a flashlight of the familiar long, round type, is entirely satisfactory. It furnishes a good, intense light, making testing a task without undue eye strain. Moreover, the fact that the light is under control, and is only "on" intermittently, is a real advantage, as it prevents the testing device from becoming hot.

A quart tin can is used, in the bottom of which, centrally, is cut a round hole just large enough for the flashlight to enter. Over the open top end of the can is stretched tightly a piece of felt cut from an old felt hat. In the center of this felt piece is cut a one and one-fourth inch hole. This is the egg hole.

For the base an inch board several inches wider and longer than the tin can is obtained, and the tin can fastened to this with two pieces of light wire, as shown. Parallel with the bottom end of the can, an inch board as high as the center of the hole is attached crossways, and a slot cut in it where the flashlight, placed through the can hole to within an inch of the felt end, can rest.

It will be noted that the flashlight is not made an inseparable part of this egg tester. When not required for this purpose it can be used for any other.—J. T. Bartlett, in Farm Mechanics.

POTATOES AS CHICKEN FEED

Fed to Best Advantage When Boiled or Steamed—Should Be Supplied in Limited Quantities.

Potatoes should be boiled or steamed before being fed to fowls and are fed to best advantage when mixed with mash. Since potatoes are quite fattening, they should be fed in limited quantities, preferably to laying hens or growing chickens, and should be used in connection with other feeds. One hundred hens will consume about ten pounds of cooked potatoes daily, and these potatoes can be used to replace cornmeal in the poultry mash. If so used, an equal weight of potatoes and mash may be mixed together. A laying mash for this purpose may be made of: One part meat scrap, one part middlings, two parts bran, and four parts potatoes, by weight.—Extension Service Colorado Agricultural College

GOOD REMEDY FOR SOREHEAD

Slits of Canvas Well Greased With Antiseptic Hung Over Feed Hopper Is Favored.

Here is a new method for keeping sorehead out of the chicken flock: Hang a piece of canvas over the opening of the feed hopper. Cut slits in this canvas, and keep the slits well greased with an antiseptic salve. In feeding, the birds get the salve on their heads, and this means no sorehead.

POULTRY NOTES

The hen with capacity and vigor should be retained.

A good layer has a large, open, moist vent.

Skim milk is thin-looking stuff, but it may be put to good use in the poultry yard.

Banking earth up around the foundation of the poultry house is a seasonable job now.

Whitewash is excellent for cleansing the poultry house. Cover every interior surface with it. The easiest way to apply is with a spray pump.

Litter that is damp, foul-smelling, or full of filth is positively harmful. Often when the egg yield falls off mysteriously the sole cause will be found to be dirty litter.

Light That Ever Shines.
We have no light promised us to show our road a hundred miles away, but we have a light for the next footstep, and if we take that, we shall have a light for the one which is to follow.—Mark Rutherford.

"HEARTS AFLAME" STIRS THE BLOOD

"Hearts Aflame," the film spectacle which began a three days' showing at the Kingston Opera House Thursday prior to its exhibition throughout the country, was witnessed by capacity audiences the first day and the general opinion was voiced that it fulfilled advance promises. Combining thrills with an appealing love story, comedy and pathos, the whole production on a massive scale, the deft and unerring touches of film-dom's foremost artists are apparent in the scenes, the direction, the photography and the cast chosen to carry out the story. "The Girl," Anna Q. Nilsson, in this role well sustains her reputation as an actress of exceptional brilliancy and charming personality and she is supported by a cast of the calibre to be expected in a film designated to be one of the outstanding productions of the year. Among the artists are Frank Keenan, Russell Simpson, Craig Ward, Richard Tucker and Irene Hunt.

The plot itself, taken from Harold Titus' "Timber," involves no impossible situations or developments but runs along with a smoothness that leaves few loopholes for the hyper-critical movie-goer. It is a simple tale of a girl's battle to save, first from an unscrupulous realty operator, then a rapacious lumber company and finally an incendiary fire, a large pine forest which her late father had set out as the first step toward restoring in that section the forests which commercialism had so nearly destroyed.

The film makers have developed many thrilling episodes, but few have stimulated sluggish blood any more than did the forest fire scene in "Hearts Aflame."

Kiwanis and Rotary club members, the mayor and city officials were among those invited to witness the showing last evening.

"Hearts Aflame" will remain at the Opera House today and tomorrow after which it will go to New York City.

SCOUT EXECUTIVE TALKS TO PARENTS

Forceful Arguments To Prove That Scouting Benefits Boys Without Interfering In Least With Other Duties or Obligations.

To parents of scouts:
Dear Friends:

Since it is impossible to meet and talk with you, personally, about your boy, and what Scouting aims to do for him—these few earnest words are addressed to you. It would enhance the work we are trying to do many fold, if every parent could know the true answer to three simple questions namely:

1—What are the great objectives of Scouting?

2—How are these ends attained?

3—Wherein can the parent help?

First—Chiefly scouting seeks to develop character and to train in citizenship.

Second—These ends are attained:

1—By the friendly interest, guidance, comradeship of a characterful, manly man, called scoutmaster, who neither receives nor expects a cent for pay, but makes lavish sacrifice of his time, convenience, and very often of his money and material interests, in the effort to help your boy—and whose only pay, unless you add your appreciation in various ways, is the consciousness of having performed a much needed civic service.

2—By providing a year around program of activities to take up the leisure time of your boy in a constructive way.

3—By helping him form at least twelve good habits.

4—By imparting to him many kinds of knowledge, the use of which makes him self-reliant, and capable of initiative and service in time of need.

5—By applying the following well known fundamentals of education:

(a) Learn by doing.

(b) The right use of the gang spirit.

(c) Substitute do for don't.

(d) Team work.

(e) "Be prepared."

(f) "Do a good turn daily."

6—By teaching him respect for authority, the rights of others, kindness to animals, loyalty to home, church, school, city and country.

7—By helping him to know and to love the birds and trees and all things of nature as God's handiwork and to establish unshakable belief in the eternal fact of God, and loyalty to the creed of his parents, whatever that creed may be.

8—By giving him frequent opportunities to participate in public service as a citizen.

Third: Wherein can the parent help?

1—By getting in touch with the scoutmaster and making him feel sure of your hearty and steadfast cooperation.

2—By taking a personal interest in your boy's progress in preparing for and passing his "tests."

3—By not keeping him home from troop meetings, test camps, etc., on account of weather conditions or as a punishment, nothing disheartens the scoutmaster or deadens the spirit of the troop more than irregular attendance and slow advancement of the scout for whom he labors so devotedly.

4—By going to a troop meeting occasionally or a test camp, or let the father go along on a hike, and both always to all special gatherings to which parents are invited. The effectiveness of the scoutmaster is enormously enhanced by the active interest of the parent expressed in every way possible.

Finally, is it too much trouble or too much to expect or ask of you as a parent, after all, it is your job and the scoutmaster, troop committee and scouting are trying only to help you, as God's trustee of a boy, responsible for his finest development into what he longs to be, and has a God-given right to the best possible chance to

WILTWYCK HOSE ANNUAL MEETING

Sixty-Third Event of Its Kind Proves As Enjoyable As Others—Officers and Delegates Chosen.

Wiltwyck Hose Company No. 1, which was first organized in 1857 in the village of Kingston and later disbanded but was reorganized as a volunteer fire company on September 3, 1860, held its sixty-third annual meeting at Firemen's Hall, Fair street, Thursday evening when officers were elected for the ensuing year, as follows: E. J. Wortman, president; John P. Erbe, vice-president; L. W. Henze, foreman; Jay T. Every, first assistant; Sam Bernstein, Jr., second assistant; Lucullus E. Dunne, secretary; Eugene Cornwell, treasurer; E. Frank Flanagan, Joseph C. Hurley, Roscoe Irwin, W. H. Brigham, Clifford T. Bennett, Charles J. Mullen, trustees; J. Charles Snyder, delegate to City Firemen's Association; Joseph C. Hurley and L. E. Dunne, delegates to Veterans' Volunteer Firemen's Association; Eugene Cornwell, delegate to Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association; James Ellsworth, alternate. After the business session a social time was had when refreshments were served, and an entertainment held with instrumental selections by Balfie's orchestra, banjo playing by J. P. Purcell, singing by David Froer, Jr., vaudeville acts by Henry Ulrich, and speeches by others. It was a late hour when the entertainment ended and the 1923 annual meeting of the Wiltwycks was true to form to those held annually for the past sixty years and more.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

Navy Now "The United States Fleet"

WASHINGTON.—The Navy department has announced a general order, approved by President Harding, putting into effect a plan for organization of the navy under one commander in chief. The fleet is organized under the title "The United States Fleet," and is divided into four sections, the battle fleet, the scouting fleet, the control force and the fleet base force.

At present, when the fleets meet for joint maneuvers, it has been necessary to designate the commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet as the officer to assume command. The present policy calls for the various units of the fleets meeting annually for three months for drills, maneuvers and gunnery exercises.

This winter the newly organized fleet will meet in Panama bay for that purpose. Admiral H. P. Jones, U. S. N., now commanding the Atlantic fleet, becomes commander in chief of the United States fleet in peace and war, whether the units of the fleets are in juncture or apart.

The particular advantages of the new organization are described by the navy as follows: It facilitates passing from peace to war conditions, saving time at the beginning of war, when time is vital. It allows the various units to be trained in peace for war duties by officers who are to command. It places the whole fleet under the command of the officer who is to command in time of war and gives him and the officers in command of the major units opportunity to gain necessary experience in command and in making plans to carry out their assigned tasks. It creates an organized fighting force which has only to be expanded in emergency to be ready for any campaign.

Oil Results Under New Leasing Law

SUBSTANTIAL beginning of the active development of vast mineral wealth, heretofore locked up in the public domain of the various western states, but now liberated under the general leasing law, was recorded by Dr. H. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines, in his annual report submitted to the secretary of the interior.

Oil is the foremost product of these lands so far, but Doctor Bain said that when coal resources of the East start to give out, the government-owned coal fields in the western states would be of prime importance.

In the fiscal year ended last June there were produced from government lands other than Indian lands 18,238,882 barrels of oil, of which the federal government received as royalty 3,616,852 barrels, worth $4,768,307, not including bonuses.

In addition, at the end of the year $14,000 a month was being received by the government from natural gas leases on public lands in Wyoming.

In the Rocky mountain field alone, there were on government land 336 oil wells, of which 267 were in the Salt Creek (Wyo.) field. A hundred other wells were being drilled.

Under the terms of the development there had been issued 222 oil and gas leases in four states and 7,727 prospecting permits, on each of which drilling is required, in 18 states and Alaska.

The largest number of producing wells belonging to the government is in the Salt Creek field, where the government holds title to nearly all the land. Such an immense amount of crude petroleum was produced that the capacity of the wells was far greater than the pipe line facilities to transport it.

In Montana, also, development proceeded rapidly and at the end of the fiscal year there were 57 producing wells in the Cat-Creek field and nine drilling on government land in the newly discovered and promising Sunburst-Kevin field.

These developments are exclusive to activity in naval petroleum reserves. Final adjudication was reached in outstanding contests on such oil lands, leases were granted and drilling arranged.

Wanted: New Basic Judicial Organization

A NEW basic judicial organization to meet the augmented work which has resulted from "the ever-increasing complexity of government," was suggested by Attorney General Daugherty in his annual report on the operations of the Department of Justice. Noting that 60,722 criminal cases were begun in the last fiscal year, the report declared the point was being approached "where a revamping of the machinery used in this work is inevitable."

Adoption of some method by which the government could retain attorneys who have special knowledge of government matters in addition to legal training was one of the several suggestions advanced by Mr. Daugherty. The recently enacted legislation providing additional judges should help the situation, he said, but probably will not entirely remedy it.

"The failure of local self-government in parts of the country," the report said, "results in the insistence of the citizens in those communities that the federal government perform that function in which the local government has failed, and frequently in matters where there is concurrent jurisdiction between the state and federal government it is difficult to establish a policy as to the extent to which the federal government should take jurisdiction."

"This is peculiarly true of offenses arising under the federal reserve act, the narcotic act, the Volstead act and the postal frauds act. There has been an effort on the part of the division during this fiscal year to have the United States attorneys and the state prosecuting attorneys meet from time to time for the purpose of co-operation. Evidence of the benefits of these meetings is overwhelming."

Mellon Seen as Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde

TWO impressions of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon were given in speeches in the house the other day. Representative Frear (Rep., Wis.), renewed his attacks upon Mr. Mellon, describing his annual report as "a confession of the most shameful conditions ever disclosed in the treasury taxing machinery."

Representative Fess (Rep., Ohio), recently elected to the senate, asserted that Secretary Mellon's administration of the Treasury department has proved "the most brilliant since the days of Alexander Hamilton."

Representative Frear demanded an investigation of charges made by him in a series of letters to the secretary. He repeated charges that upwards of $2,000,000,000 in corporation capital and individual surtaxes, that an oil company controlled by Secretary Mellon started "the wild melon cutting race," that the tax administration of the internal revenue office is under the control of a small group of men whose activities have become a public scandal, that the Aluminum Company of America, the Standard Steel company and other corporations have been favored.

Representative Fess reviewed the progress of governmental financing under Secretary Mellon. He said:

"Under Mr. Mellon's direction this nation has balanced its budget, reduced its public debt by over $2,234,102,975, financed its loans, thawed out its frozen credits, released its assets for industry, made banking easier, lowered rates of interest and rediscovers, revived business, banished unemployment, and brought the government credit back to par. This achievement will challenge the record for an equal performance in the history of finance."

This first and exclusive photograph shows the burning of the huge French hospital ship Vinh-Lang, which caught fire and was destroyed while carrying doctors, nurses and supplies from Toulon, France, to the Near East. The U. S. destroyer Bainbridge picked up her distress signal, and, disregarding all dangers, bore along side the burning vessel and saved several hundred lives, only 20 being killed.

Family of Dwarfs.

Among the interesting accounts of dwarfs is that of Count Joseph Borclaski, who is said to have been "the son of well-formed parents of whom the first, third and fifth were dwarfs. Joseph, who wrote a history of his own life, records that his eldest brother was three feet six inches; then came Joseph himself, whose height at twenty was two feet ten inches, and at thirty, three feet three inches. He was succeeded by three others, the middle one being a girl who died of smallpox, being then two feet two inches, but of admirable proportions. John Borclaski was very well proportioned, was married to a woman of ordinary size, who brought him several well-formed children, and died at Bank's cottage, near Durham, in 1837, at the age of ninety-eight, a great age for an ordinary man, and without an example in the history of the dwarfs."

Boy, 14, Unhurt in 80-Foot Fall.

Oliver Maples, fourteen years old, fell 80 feet over a cliff in a park at Los Angeles, Cal., and then walked to a hospital to see if he was injured. Surgeons told him he was bruised and scratched a little. They sent him home with a warning to be more careful when he played.

Mrs. O. L. Jones

This photograph of Mrs. Oliver L. Jones, of Louisville, Kentucky, was taken in the sitting room of her home, where she shot and killed Oscar Black, 44, early Christmas Eve. She sat alongside the body 12 hours before she surrendered to the police. Mrs. Jones, a divorcee, has been reconciled with her former husband since the shooting, and asserts he will stand by her in her trial.

NOVELIST AND WIFE MAKING TOUR AROUND WORLD IN AN AUTOMOBILE

The photograph shows Richard Jeffreys, American novelist, and his wife, who are now in England, on one of the stops of their tour around the world in an automobile. His wife's professional name is Pauline Mayo. They left Columbus, O., last June and so far have toured through Portugal, Spain, France and Germany. They leave England next March for Europe, Turkey, Egypt, Persia, India, China, Japan, and thence back to San Francisco. Photo shows: Mr. Jeffreys at work in a Scottish farmyard, while his wife prepares dinner. They sleep in the automobile.

WINTER IS TIME TO VARNISH CAR

Much Pleasure Given to Owner
if His Automobile Has Good Outward Appearance.

MINOR DEFECTS NOT VISIBLE

Necessary That All Parts to Be Painted
Should Be Thoroughly Washed and Sandpapered—Keep in Fairly Warm Room.

Half the enjoyment of owning a car comes from the fact that it has a good appearance. It may run well and ride very comfortably, but it is an eyesore and a heart-break if it looks dirty, paint is cracked or varnish is dull and lusterless. How different the car which shines in the splendor of a perfect coat of paint and varnish, even if there are minor defects, known only to the owner or the expert.

It takes time to do a good job of removing paint and varnish on an automobile, and the new coat should have plenty of time to dry and harden. For this reason a good time to do this work is in winter, especially in those cases where cars are put in the garage and laid up for the winter. The owner will then be ready to drive out in good style on the first nice spring day.

If the owner is not so particular about an exceptionally high class job of painting, he can clean the car thoroughly and paint it himself at much less expense than he can hire it done.

Two Things Necessary.

Two of the things necessary in making a smooth-looking paint job are the following:

First—All parts to be painted must be thoroughly washed and then smoothed off by sandpaper or steel wool, and all of the dust brushed or rubbed off.

Second—The car must be placed in a fairly warm room where there is no dust, as a little dust on the paint before it is dry will spoil the looks of any paint job.

If the paint is not worn off, but is merely somewhat checked and dulled, it may be preserved by applying a coat of good varnish, making sure that the car is first thoroughly washed, dried and then smoothed off with fine sandpaper. If the paint has worn entirely through in spots and the metal parts are beginning to rust, the only way to preserve these parts and keep them from becoming spoiled entirely is to have the car thoroughly cleaned and painted.

Keep Down Rust.

In case the paint on the car is fairly good, but rusty spots show in various places, then by touching these up with new paint of the same color you will find the looks of the car greatly improved and further rusting prevented at the expense of very little time and money.

The top and side curtains should also be taken care of at this time. First clean the top thoroughly. Soap and water is probably as good as anything. Then, after the top is thoroughly dry, give it a coat of good top dressing, which can be bought at any accessory store, and this will not only preserve the top and help to keep it from leaking, but will greatly improve its general appearance. If the top is sagging, the best way to remedy this is to first loosen the front part of the top from the windshield and then tighten the straps at the back slightly. Then, when the front part is pulled back into place again, most of the sagging will be removed in case the right adjustment of the rear straps has been made.

If the celluloid windows are broken, probably the best proposition will be to get new ones, but if there is just a small break in a window, this can usually be mended by means of some sheet celluloid and celluloid cement.

Battery Tips.

Cover the plates with water. Turn on the lights when the battery becomes hot.

Test the battery every two weeks with a hydrometer. Always be sure to have sufficient pure distilled water in the battery.

When filling the battery, wipe the surface clean of moisture and dust.

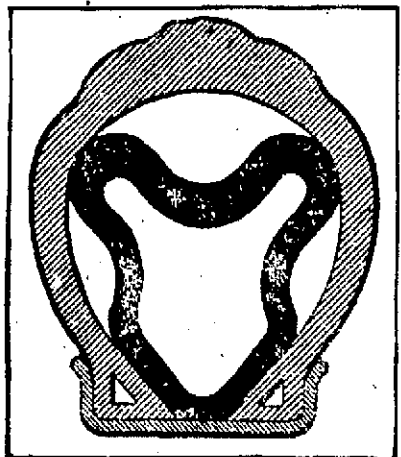

Relieve the work of the battery when starting by retarding the spark, and only using a single short pressure to the starting button.

TUBE THAT REPAIRS ITS OWN PUNCTURES

Described as Most Ingenious Device
Attained So Far.

When Inflated Pressure Is Set Up Sufficient to Close Hole Made by Ordinary Puncture and Keep It Closed.

Here is an inner tube that repairs its own punctures and it is described in the Scientific American as the most ingenious attained up to date on this perennial problem. The inventor makes his tube with a circumference considerably greater than the inner surface of the casing for which it is designed. The extra rubber is taken care of and it is made possible to insert the uninflated tube inside the shoe.

Tube Repairs Its Own Punctures.

by deep corrugations that are molded around the tube, as indicated in our diagram, which shows the uninflated tube in position in the casing. When it is now inflated and forced by its contained air to conform to the shape of the casing, a pressure is set up along its outer wall which is claimed to be sufficient to close the hole made by an ordinary puncture, and keep it closed. The "compression tube" is made in Tulsa, Okla., and has been in rather extensive use in the Southwest, with very good results.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

The customary time to put water in the radiator is while the garage man is pouring a quart of oil into the engine.

To prevent a short circuit slip a small piece of rubber tubing over the wire at the point where the contact might occur.

Having learned to master the car—when everything is running in ship-shape—the next step is to learn to drive it when things have gone wrong.

The compression of a car should be carefully watched by occasionally squirting oil around spark plugs, valve caps and relief valves, as well as around the gasket of the removable head.

Siberia's Republic

Young Woman, Bread Merchant of Siberia.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

The passing of the Far Eastern republic of Siberia recalls that this picturesque government, which Moscow was willing to have exist as a buffer state toward the Japanese-occupied territory around Vladivostok, was supposed to be built on the model of the United States, but with certain radical "attachments." It is even probable that, though the country is federated with the Moscow government, its individualistic tendencies may continue; for the pioneer conditions of Siberia and the struggle against them have developed an individualism in the Siberians not unlike that which grew in our Westerners.

When the daylight is fading and the long shadows are stretching across the plains, one realizes the vastness of Siberia—panorama of a gently undulating, silent sea, green and brown, or unending white.

The area of the Far Eastern republic is 450,000 square miles, larger than Texas and California combined, yet it is only the southeast corner of Siberia, one-twentieth of the former Russian empire. From Vladivostok, on the coast, to Verkhne-Udinsk, on the republic's western boundary, is more than 1,700 miles by rail, and little more than one-third of Siberia has been crossed. Usually the train is the only sign of life. As far as the eye can see, the telegraph poles stand sentry along the winding railroad, fading away in the distance.

Everywhere now are the scars of war. It may be a locomotive, rusty and half covered with sand, lying in the ditch where it plunged with its human freight. It may be the skeleton of a train, deserted on a side track, burned except for the steel framework of cars and trucks. Twisted rails, wrecked bridges, or shattered fragments, where an ammunition train has blown up, vary the picture.

A peasant's wagon, with slung galloping ponies and the invariable dog trotting behind, is a sign that a village is near. The lamps on the station platform are gone and semaphores of the old days stand with broken arms, for this is now a moonbeam railroad, running without signals or headlights.

Railroad Still Running. The railroad is the most important public utility of the republic. Poverty and dilapidation have overwhelmed it, just as they have gripped the fallen gentile of the barakholka. It keeps running, which is about all. With the obstacles which must be overcome, the marvel is that even that is accomplished.

The passenger coaches are unheated in winter, windows dirty and broken, electric light fixtures, wrenched out bodily, lavatories filled with dirt, rough boards where once were mirrors, doors nailed shut or broken off, and the floors splintered from being used as chopping blocks. The proletariat seems to relish a martyrdom to darkness and dirt.

The Far Eastern republic has 2,020 miles of railroad, exclusive of the 1,100 miles of the Chinese Eastern railroad, which also belongs to Russia. They are more of a liability than an asset.

As a part of the Transsiberian, the system of an empire stretching across two continents, these miles of road give access to the Pacific. They are more than the republic will need for many years to come. The 1,438 miles of the Amur road parallel the river through tracts of virgin forest, a country rich in gold and coal, but undeveloped. Geologists say that there is not a 150-mile stretch along this road where coal cannot be mined. It was constructed for military purposes, and when the war broke out much of it had not been ballasted.

When one travels in Siberia these days, at regular intervals the train stops and the conductor plods along the side, shouting "Tovaritschi-za drovami!" It is the call for the "comrades" to pile on and carry sticks from the neighboring woodpiles to the locomotive. It is a crude study in communism.

Most of the passengers, women and girls as well as men, make their way leisurely across the fields. Some climb on the tender, and the fuel is loaded by a bucket brigade at an old-time fire.

For thousands the railroad provides the only home. An official may get a passenger coach or private car for himself and his family, but the proletariat—men, women and children—are herded by dozens in box-cars, anybody who can crowd in being free to pick out a corner for a home.

Moving Slowly Toward Russia. In Chita and Verkhne-Udinsk hundreds are housed in box-car cities, cooking, eating and living in the open during the day and at night sleeping on rough shelves which have been built into the cars.

Some are on the move, getting nearer soviet Russia whenever a locomotive can be spared to pull their trains, while others have been waiting for months. Included in this west-bound tide a year ago were about a hundred American artisans each month, bound for soviet Russia—"a country where men are free," as they explained.

The military band is an important factor in Chita's life. It precedes every company of soldiers, sturdy young men in unmatched uniforms, that marches through the streets during the day. In the evenings its members play at the two theaters and public gardens.

Chita even has a circus. It is mostly clowns with racy songs. On pleasant evenings the public gardens are filled, though 5 cents admission is charged. Every seat in the theaters is taken. No one attempts to explain how the strangely assorted crowds gets the price of admission. The cement-floored, free, outdoor dance pavilion is crowded also during the warmer months. Sometimes there is grand opera and other weeks there is a stock company or movies.

Among Russians, the paralysis of the country and the suffering the people have experienced in recent years is blamed on Japan. Much of it, however, is a heritage from the revolution, the overthrow of a despotic monarchy and the launching of another government whose principals go to the opposite extreme in radicalism.

That Siberia could not recover as long as Japan maintained a hostile army within its territory, and that a large proportion of the Japanese military did not want it to recover until it was annexed, as Korea was, seemed equally evident.

Why the Republic Was Formed.

Several motives contributed to the formation of the Far Eastern republic as a constitutional democracy. Soviet Russia could have prevented, but assisted instead. Moscow has been the only friend of Chita, aiding it with gold and soldiers, though extremely limited in both. However, the two republics were separate, as any one soon found out when passing the customs guards, immigration officers and soldiers on either side of the boundaries.

In the first place, the Far Eastern republic satisfied the wish for a buffer state between Japan and soviet Russia. Next, the leaders of Moscow realized that their beautiful theories of communism had been an economic and social failure, and this corner of Siberia offered a good field to try out the democracy of America embellished with some of the latest radical novelties.

The third reason, alone sufficient, was that the Siberian peasant is loath to accept a broader communism than the guild communism to which he is accustomed.

The Siberian peasant averages 100 acres of land. He can have as much more as he wants to cultivate. It is there for the taking. What he raises is his own. He is willing to put his crop in the community storehouse, but the idea of turning it over to a government on the strength of a promise of clothes, tools, or a free ride on the railroad cannot be driven into his head.

Propaganda is the gripping force of the government. Every employee or soldier gets a free newspaper, and a Russian newspaper is always more enthusiastic for its country and some particular local party than it is for news.

In each city is a reading room, and the demand for books on industry, electricity, mechanics, metallurgy, medicine, agriculture, and other useful sciences largely exceeds the limited number of well-thumbed copies.

DRAWN BY MOTHER'S COOKING

Georgia Youth Broke Jail to Enjoy
Breakfast and Returned to Place of Punishment.

There's something more than the proverbial joke in mother's cooking. It may not be as scientific or as elaborate, as is the product of cafe hotel chefs, but there is a satisfying character about it to a son which cannot be duplicated, remarks the Atlanta Georgian.

Over in South Carolina an eighteen-year-old lad was locked up in the town jail for a minor offense. It was probably the first time he had been thus violently torn from home and mother—at any rate, when next morning rolled around he missed the delectable breakfast which he had been accustomed to enjoy under the parental roof.

When in the wash room he managed to secure two iron bars, which he concealed until the jailer had gone. Then he smashed the lock of his cell and hid himself away for home. After he had safely put away the breakfast which mother prepared for him, he quietly returned to the jail and gave himself up.

Of course the lad made himself a "criminal" in the eyes of the law by breaking jail, especially as he aided two other prisoners to escape at the same time. But the fact of his return to captivity proved the truth of his assertion that he only craved one of "mother's breakfasts." Surely a boy cannot be all bad when he will dare so much merely to get one of mother's home-cooked meals.

OVERCROWD BOMBAY, INDIA

Conditions Deplorable, Says Report to U. S. Department of Commerce.

Bombay's housing conditions are deplorable. There is one building for every 223 persons of its 1,175,900 population, whereas, in Aderabad there is one for every 6.2 persons, and in Karachi one for every 15.5 persons. Overcrowded conditions, it is said, are so much worse in Bombay than in London that there is no comparison. To alleviate this distress the improvement and development directorate of Bombay, according to reports received by the Far Eastern division of the Department of Commerce, has arranged for the construction in the city and on the island nearby of 50,000 houses. At the rate of five persons to a house, including children, these houses will provide for 250,000 persons, or one-fifth of the city's entire present population.

The program provides for the erection of 4,800 houses by the close of 1922-23, after which the number will be increased until provision is made for 8,000 each year for 1925 to 1928. Mill owners of Bombay are also reported as having recently built 2,000 tenements for their employees, with 1,200 contemplated for the near future. These schemes are being rapidly aided by improvement in waterway and railway connection, thus cheapening material for building.

Last Word in Heating System.

The advantage of hot-water heating has been ingeniously combined with the cheerfulness of the open-grate fire in a new heating apparatus which is adaptable for any width of fire-grate opening. It consists of a sectional boiler with hollow grate bars and an iron front and doors. The rear, sides and fire basket are hollow and filled with water, connected to an expansion tank located in the attic. The usual system of piping to the various radiators throughout the house operates in the same manner as any other hot-water system. A coil is placed in the rear of the heater and connected to the regular hot-water tank and thus hot water is available at all times. The water gauge and thermometer are installed at a convenient point near the heater. As the grate opening (usually in the living room) is located on the first floor it requires a minimum of attention.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Leeds

When Mr. and Mrs. William B. Leeds motored to Montclair, N. J., to dine with Mr. and Mrs. Henderson Green, Mrs. Leeds left $250,000 worth of jewels in a taxicab, where they were later found by detectives. Mr. Leeds is the son of Princess Anastasia, of Greece, widow of the American "Tin Plate King." Mrs. Leeds was Princess Xenia, of Russia, daughter of Grand Duchess Marie, herself a sister of ex-King Constantine of Greece. Grand Duchess Marie recently relinquished her rank and married, at Wiesbaden, Germany, Captain Ioannides, of the Greek navy.

SHOW AUTHORITY WITH WHIP

Bridegrooms in Certain Parts of Africa
Assert Their Mastery in No Uncertain Manner.

On the day of a marriage in Jubaland the girl issues from her father's house surrounded by throngs of women, dancing, singing and making a great deal of noise. She is taken to the bridegroom's hut, where he awaits her. As she passes in through the low doorway he gives her two or three sharp cuts with a rhinoceros hide lash, to intimate that he intends to be master.

She then has to attend to the various guests who come with gifts for the newly married couple; but she is not allowed to speak to them; neither does her husband address her. All his commands, given by signs, have to be obeyed promptly, and should the girl be slow or not understand the meaning of his gestures, she is instantly smothered up with a sharp blow from the lash. It is a point of honor that she utters no sound, however hard she is lashed.

The husbands of a certain section of Somalists tie a rope around the bride's wrists on the first evening of marriage, and attach the end of the rope to a branch, tightening it so that the girl's toes only just touch the ground; they then proceed to administer a sound flogging. But the girl never utters a cry; and, as soon as the husband has administered a good hard beating he takes her down, washes and anoints her wounds, and looks after her tenderly until the cuts heal and the stiffness passes.

And He Didn't Mean That, Exactly.

It was a concert in connection with the Sunday school anniversary, and when Freddy was called upon to give his recitation his nerve failed completely. Standing trembling before the sympathetic audience, he seemed as if he could not make a start. Persuasion was tried, but in vain. He broke into sobs and finally was sent back to his seat.

The officiating minister seized the opportunity to pour out consolation and also give encouragement for the good of the boy.

"Well, friends," he remarked, "it is not a very nice thing to stand here and look at all your faces."

Could Not Find "Mary."

A Sunday evening recently, shortly after 8 o'clock, a young man stopped at a home in West Forty-second street, and asked whether any one could tell him where "Mary" lived. He said he did not know her name, but that his sister had introduced him to Mary, and he had taken her home in West Forty-second street. He was told that no "Mary" lived in the blocks bounded by Conser avenue and the Northwest-ern bridge. He walked away toward the east with a box of candy under his arm.—Indianapolis News.

ALLIGATOR A GOOD MOTHER

Takes Care of Young in Much the Same Manner as Does the Hen of the Barnyard.

The female alligator lays a great number of eggs with hard shells, which in size and general appearance resemble hens' eggs. And she lays them in a nest built in a curious manner.

Along the bank of a stream is spread a layer of mud and grass, or leaves, and on this is placed a layer of eggs, then another layer of eggs carefully covered, and so on, until often thirty or more eggs are deposited. Although the eggs are hatched by the heat of the sun, and the decaying vegetable matter, the mother alligator watches the nest carefully. As soon as the young, which are helpless little creatures about eight inches long, are hatched, she leads them to the water and takes care of them as a hen does her brood of chickens, until they are strong enough to defend themselves.

Antelope to Be Cared For.

The antelope, noted for its coloring, delicate proportions and zephyr-like movements, is threatened with extinction unless some measures are taken at once to give it some protection. There are said to be 3,000 in the United States, and 350 of these are in the Yellowstone park. In 1899 there were 2,000 in the park alone. Agitation on behalf of the antelope has been started by the members of the American Bison society, which has done so much for the buffalo. The winter range in the Yellowstone park is not nearly adequate for the antelope alone and it is necessary to share it with other animals. It is proposed to enlarge this winter range and also to provide similar ranges in California, Oregon, Utah, Nevada, Wyoming and Idaho, and also to withdraw from public use certain parts of the Yellowstone where the animals congregate. The antelope herd in this country suffered last year from exposure and from the depredations of predatory animals.

Sky Pictures.

In Fenland, where the writer lives the skies are always wonderful, it is the distinction of the flat country. We wish we could put down some of these sky-pictures in words. There have been thunder skies of black, of bronze, of green. We saw lately against a black bank of cloud, through which the sun broke, a swarm of white butterflies that beat and fluttered like snowflakes. There was one sky memorable above all, a sky of the Second Coming, with all the pomp and panorama of the clouds, clouds like towers, like domes, like mountains, like phantom armies, like flying dragons of bronze upon a background of blue marble.—R. L. Giles, in "Old World Essays."

BLIND MAN MEETS OLD BUDDY

British Hero, Here to Attend Inter-Allied Veterans' Convention, Recognizes Voice of Former Comrade.

Capt. Wm. Appleby, Indianapolis on the way from New Orleans, for only a few minutes before his arrival there he had met, by strange coincidence, a man whom he had not seen nor heard of for twenty-two years, but who was in his regiment, Lancashire Fusiliers in 1900, and who was born only ten miles from him in England. Captain Appleby recognized him by his voice.

Although he is totally blind, Capt. William Appleby of Great Britain was one of the most cheerful delegates to the Inter-Allied Veterans' association convention which met in New Orleans in conjunction with the American Legion national gathering.

Captain Appleby was especially happy when the delegation of war heroes stopped in Indianapolis on the way from New Orleans, for only a few minutes before his arrival there he had met, by strange coincidence, a man whom he had not seen nor heard of for twenty-two years, but who was in his regiment, Lancashire Fusiliers in 1900, and who was born only ten miles from him in England. Captain Appleby recognized him by his voice.

As Alfred Ernest Evans, an Indianapolis engineer, walked through the train as a member of the Indianapolis committee to welcome the heroes, he was stopped by an Englishman who asked his name.

"My name, sir, is Evans," he replied. "Alfred Evans, of the Lancashire Fusiliers," he was asked.

"Yes, sir. Who are you?"

"Captain William Appleby, your former regimental commander."

And then they began, busily recalling incidents of the South African battles they fought together in 1900.

"I recognized Mr. Evans' voice the minute I heard it," the English hero said.

Captain Appleby lost his sight in the second battle of Trepas. He has also been wounded 29 times. His pretty nineteen-year-old daughter Olga, his constant companion and his "eyes" since he lost his sight, accompanied him on the American trip.

GUDE IS AN EXPERT OARSMAN

Washington (D. C.) Legionnaire, Carries Off Junior, Intermediate and Association Prizes.

It takes years to produce a good oarsman, rowing experts claim, but Granville Gude, a Washington, D. C., member of the American Legion, won one of the biggest national contests after he had been rowing only six weeks, thereby establishing a precedent in the sporting world.

Gude won the Junior, Intermediate and A association prizes in one afternoon with only short intervals of rest between races at the Middle States regatta.

The Washington Legionnaire is at his best in the sculling races and is expected by his buddies to win a national championship one of these days.

RADIO OUTFIT FOR HOSPITAL

Government Institution at Colfax, Ia., Equipped With Set Provided by Members of Auxiliary.

Patients in the United States Government hospital 75, at Colfax, Ia., are enjoying daily, and nightly, all the good things which come through the air from many broadcasting stations, with a large radio outfit women of the American Legion auxiliary have presented them. And disabled veterans who are at the Bellevue Vocational school near Omaha, Neb., are taking delight in a saxophone, a set of bells a trombone and a cornet, presented by the same auxiliary—the Department of Nebraska—to complete their orchestra.

In the Iowa hospital, in which there are many Nebraska boys, each bed has been fitted with a receiver, so the patients may listen in at any time, and a magna vox has been installed in each corridor so that all in the rooms off the corridor can hear all the programs.

The Nebraska women also have sent boxes to the disabled veterans in hospitals in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri, and at Denver, Colo., and Fort Bayard, N. M.

Gave Funds for Playgrounds.

After spending two years in acquiring funds for a clubhouse, the American Legion post at Mangum, Okla., decided the children of the town needed a playground worse than the former service men did a clubhouse. Accordingly, the Legionnaires obtained an eight-year lease on a plot of ground and used the fund they had been so long in collecting to purchase playground equipment.

NEED OF PHYSICAL EXERCISE

Director of Legion's Americanization Commission Cites Reasons Why Many Were Disqualified.

Most of the physical defects which disqualified almost a quarter of the men examined in the army draft could have been prevented by adequate physical education programs, according to Garland W. Powell, director of the American Legion's Americanization commission. A prominent medical authority makes the following statements on the subject of draft disqualification, according to Mr. Powell:

"1. Heart disease could be prevented by proper strengthening of the heart through physical activities, removal of physical defects such as bad tonsils and infected teeth. 2. Malformation of the limbs may be prevented to some extent by proper physical activities. 3. Defective vision oftentimes could be prevented by exercise. 4. Undersize would not exist in many cases if there were physical activity and proper instruction in regard to nutrition, preparation of food and the like. 5. Hernia undoubtedly in the majority of cases would be prevented by the development of abdominal muscles. 6. Instruction in care of the feet and selection of shoes will prevent a large proportion of flat feet."

BEST INFORMED LEGION MAN

Columbia (S. C.) Committee Man Up on All Hospitalization and Rehabilitation Questions.

"The best informed American Legion member in this country on all questions dealing with hospitalization and rehabilitation," is the way Alvin Owensley, Legion commander, describes Joe Sparks of Columbia, S. C., newly-appointed chairman of the Legion's national rehabilitation committee.

The ability of Mr. Sparks to co-operate with the United States Veterans' bureau was also named by Mr. Owensley as one of his strongest recommendations. Mr. Sparks' work as Legion liaison representative at the headquarters of the Fifth United States Veterans' bureau district has drawn national attention to such an extent that Legion headquarters has received a flood of telegrams from the North and West urging his appointment since the Legion convention.

During Mr. Sparks' term the Fifth district was rated more than 92 percent efficient, the highest of all 14 districts. Out of a total of 2,000 patients in ex-service hospitals, 2,100 veterans have been rated total temporary disability and 499 claims are being adjudicated.

Although Mr. Sparks was well over the draft age, he served as a "buck private" in the Fifty-seventh and Third Pioneers during the World war. Mr. Sparks was born in Laurens county, S. C., thirty-seven years ago. Later he went to Columbia, where he got a job as a newspaper reporter. He was city editor of the Columbia State, one of the most influential newspapers in the South, when he enlisted.

Returning from the army, Mr. Sparks became connected with a large New York life insurance company. His work with the Legion has been in Atlanta and in New York.

Malaga for Baseball Bats.
About two years ago experiments proved that Cuban malaga was ideally adapted for the manufacture of baseball bats. This hardwood is of tough fiber and it can be used for any purpose requiring material that will not break easily. Within the past year a growing interest has developed in the United States in the importation of malaga for the manufacture of baseball bats. For this purpose it is cut into pieces 38 inches long and 3 inches square. One firm exported to the United States during the past year 1,000 of these pieces.—Scientific American.

SOME ODD CUNNING METHODS

Bill Collectors Have Various Ways of Bringing Slow-Paying Customers to a Settlement.

The woman was talking the other day with the man who runs the corner drug store about the way people didn't pay bills. He said he used to know a man in his home town who ran up a tailor bill for some time and after several requests on the part of the tailor a notation was added to the bill to the effect that an immediate settlement would be appreciated.

The man owing the bill called and gave the tailor his check and said: "Now, look here, Abe, I'll pay my bills all right, but don't write anything on the bottom of them."

A few months later another bill remained unpaid in spite of several duplicates sent by Abe, so another was sent on which was scribbled: "You told me not to write anything on your bill—so I won't."

The woman said she used to know of a grocer who, when the bills were too long overdue, wrote on them: "Pay something, if it's only attention."—Chicago Journal.

SAW THE JOKE ON HIMSELF

Charles M. Schwab Tells Good Story, in Which He Is Very Much the Central Figure.

Charles M. Schwab does not take himself seriously, except as an instrumentality for service and production, and he does not listen to any praise of himself without tempering it with a retort if the occasion permits.

Mr. Schwab attended a banquet in Indianapolis recently. After hearing eulogies of himself by other speakers, he told the following stories:

"It is embarrassing to hear oneself eulogized as I have been by your good toastmaster, but when it is done, I bring myself to have a better conception of myself by recalling an incident that happened shortly after I took charge of the Carnegie plant."

"I was more or less a figure of local prominence in the community, and when I left the plant each day I rode home in a buggy driven by an old dorky."

"One day as we were driving along, a mother out taking an airing with her little daughter walked to the side of the road and as we passed pointed up at the buggy and said: 'There, honey, is Mr. Schwab.' The child replied: 'Which one, mother?'"

Reversing Speech.

There is a curious phonographic instrument, the invention of Poulsen, capable of reversing the sounds of a word or a sentence. A steel piano wire, carried on two spools, passes between the poles of a small electromagnetic coil connected with a telephone transmitter that spoken words are magnetically recorded on the moving wire and reproduced in a receiving instrument. When the motion of the wire is direct, the words are heard as in ordinary conversation, but if the motion is reversed, the sounds come to the ear in reverse order, like words spelled backward. To represent the order in which the reversed sounds strike the ear, however, not only must the order of the letters composing a word be reversed, but each letter must itself be reversed from right to left, as when reflected from a mirror.

Train Lighting Made Easy.

Small enough to be mounted almost anywhere on a locomotive is a compact unit consisting of a direct-connected dynamo and steam turbine, that has been produced in Switzerland to provide for train lighting. In the housing for the turbine, between it and the dynamo, is an air fan for cooling the shaft bearing at this point, and which acts also as a stuffing box for the turbine. The turbine, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, is very simple, and the steam requires no control, for the air fan acts as a governor, preventing racing, and keeping the speed uniform at all loads. The lamps in the train remain remarkably steady, and there is a very small variation of voltage, no matter how many or how few lamps are in operation.

Want to live in a big city, do you? Well, in New York, the city of opportunities, a watch is pawned every 45 seconds.—Atchison Globe.

OLD MAN IN LOVE

Foolish Idea That Makes Him Object of Derision.

Fact Is That the Aging Are Much More in Need of Affection Than the Young.

Many men are as prone to fall in love in the October years of their lives as they were in the April period. There are numerous instances of hoar December marrying rosy May, asserts January Mortimer in the Continental edition of the London Daily Mail.

In the interest of racial vigor such unions are discouraged by public opinion, not only among civilized but also among primitive people. The children of aged fathers often possess marked intellectual qualities, but they are rarely very robust physically.

It is generally recognized also that marriages between old men and young women often prove unhappy for both partners. There are, however, notable exceptions to this rule.

The old man in love is a subject for banter and often an object of derision among his acquaintances. The dotard was a favorite butt for the humor of the old English comedy writers.

It is a common view that middle-aged persons ought to have "got over" amorous susceptibility. Highly practical, unsentimental people are wont to regard love somewhat lightly, or to regard the passion as a species of malady or the folly of youth, which should be outgrown at fifty at latest.

Very few elderly men have revealed their emotional experiences of love in the autumn of life. The thoughts and the sentiments which are considered natural and normal in early manhood are deemed unnatural and abnormal at the approach of the senescent age. This is the outcome of the tendency to determine age by dates.

It is well proved that only a proportion of men begin to feel "winter in the blood" at fifty-five, and that the decline of the tender emotional feeling toward the opposite sex is a very gradual process in a vast number. It is also shown that marriage tends to lengthen the span of life in both sexes, to favor health and well-being, and to postpone the physical and mental signs of old age.

The lonely aging man may not renew his youth by falling in love and marrying, but a peaceful conjugal life will undoubtedly add to his chances of enjoying the last stage of his journey. For the old are even more in need of love than the young.

But the old man must steel his senses against the fascination of youthfulness. He should seek a companion in a woman not more than ten years his junior at the most.

"Trying" as Path to Success.

Trying, in a scientific sense, means years of labor and experiment. But if one new principle can be laid down as a result, or if one useful invention can be given to the world for all time, the labor is never in vain. It is not true that anything can be done by trying. A stone-deaf man could try his life out and never become a pianist.

A man without a feeling for words could expend vain years seeking to become a writer.

But trying accomplishes many results that have long been deemed impossible.

It has brought mediocrity to real accomplishment and it has given talent a reputation for genius.

It is because trying is nothing but hard work and hard thought (for both of which the average man has a distaste) that it is not employed more often as a means of success.—John Blake in Chicago Daily News.

Remarkable Memory of Indian.

A native Indian of the Yakima tribe is said to have the most retentive memory in America. His brain cells register everything he hears or sees. During the war he served with the army in France, and was of much value in carrying long messages, observing positions, or checking supplies, according to a report of the Indian bureau. When he was in camp he could call off a regimental roster and catalogue every item of equipment without any note or memorandum. On one occasion, after making a full report of observations to the extent of a thousand items or more, he repeated the full text of a lecture he had heard the night before. This was in the presence of the lecturer himself, and was pronounced perfect.

Radio and Crewless Vessels.

It is now possible to send a crewless vessel as far as radio impulses will carry. The same means can be used in sending a giant torpedo against a foe, regardless of how far distant the enemy might be, provided he is within reach of the radio. In vessels the device is attached to the fuel engine, the water engines and the steering mechanism, making it possible to guide, fuel and water by radio.

Damage for "Barnacle Bite."

The first claim paid by one of the leading insurance companies in 1886 was to a man in Galveston, Texas, who wrote that he was "bitten by a barnacle." Investigation demonstrated that he was from the fresh water state of Wisconsin and had merely clung to an iron post in the water when tossed by a comber and was badly lacerated, about $37 worth.

Diplomacy.

"Where did you first meet Mr. Wadleigh?"
"On the golf links."
"He said you are no fool."
"I said 'the stroke' at the psychological moment."

Need Code of Ethics.

A moral issue is a fight with one's own self. We come into life with many instincts. They are our animal heritage. Men is a good animal, and knows how to preserve and perpetuate his life with little external training. But in recent ages we have made great upward advances, and our modes of life have completely outstripped our instincts. Your inherited habits will no longer suffice to guide your conduct in civilized life; you need a code of ethics as well. The choice between ethical principles makes a moral issue. Is this wrong or is that wrong? And when on judge between right and wrong you are always considering your actions in the light of the future.

GALLUPERS IN ROCKY MOUNTAINS

Leave Florida For Pacific Coast—Fatty Clink Seems Bound To Meet Trouble—Battled By Mountain Goat Over Precipice He Escapes Death In Marvelous Manner.

"Hurrah for the Rocky Mountains," shouted Raiser Turk as the round-the-world, Gallupers hove in view of that famous range after spending several pleasant days in Florida.

"I wonder if there is any good shooting left in the mountains," observed Blink Biven.

"We'll soon find out," replied Captain Ralph Roadboy, "for we will probably spend several days there before proceeding to the Pacific coast."

"Suits me all right," said Zink Biven "for I have often wanted to roam the Rockies, and have a chance to tell the folks back home all about it when we do get back."

"The next day the Gallupers with packs on their backs started off to see the Rockies at close hand expecting to camp out for several nights. If any game was to be met they were prepared for each carried their own hunting equipment.

That night as the boys pitched camp near a steep precipice that overlooked a deep mountain valley they found the air cool and chill and the camp fire tempted them to lounge around it after the evening meal had been cleared away.

The only member of the party not tempted by the fire was Fatty Clink who was growing somewhat homesick, due undoubtedly to the fact that he had just received a letter from the only girl back home which had been forwarded to him from Florida where the Gallupers had spent some time.

Wandering away from the others to commune close to nature Fatty strolled along the edge of the precipice and imagined that in the fluffy clouds that floated across the face of the moon that he saw the face of only girl.

So absorbed was Fatty in his thoughts that he did not hear the approach of one of the huge mountain goats. Just what had caused this goat to approach so close to the boy is not known. It might have been due to the fact that he had a falling out with his better half. Whatever the cause the mountain billy was far from being in good humor and as it spotted the outlined form of Fatty on the edge of the precipice the goat suddenly lowered its head and, without warning, charged.

The first thing Fatty knew he felt the force of the blow and a sudden sickening feeling as he was shot, headlong over the edge of the precipice.

It was fortunate for Fatty that at that precise moment a mountain gale was passing through the canyon below for he landed on top of the gale of wind which bore him at a speed of seventy-five miles an hour down the canyon. Just as Fatty was ready to give up all hope he found himself hurled up and out toward the top of the precipice and in less time than it takes to tell he landed with both feet against the furry side of a huge grizzly bear.

The bear just emitted one grunt before it collapsed from the force of the blow and Fatty found himself sitting on its carcass, which had saved him from receiving any broken bones, escaping with a shaken up. It was several hours later before Fatty was able to find his way back to the camp.

One Too! Here.

The fresh brakeman approached the lunch-counter Jane with a look of tenderness in his eye.

"Little dear," he began, as he started to encircle her waist with his arm.

"Don't brakes, kiddo," she interrupted. "You're going around a dangerous curve."

What has become of the old-fashioned girl who wore so many pins in the vicinity of her waist line that you got your hand all scratched up?

If you would prosper, put things over instead of talking them over.

She swears she has never been kissed. Maybe that's why she swears.

Sometimes we think it ought to be written, "He has all the disadvantages of youth."

Some girls don't write home from college for several weeks at a stretch while some run out of spending money every few days.

Rural Dream In Fashion. The girl stood on the wagon deck. Her feet were growing bunions; She wore no lace around her neck And her breath it smelled of onions.

She was a picture of the farm. The tan had kissed her freckles. Her eyes were crossed, there was no charm. Her hands were hard as knuckles.

She stood in silence for a while. My gaze, it was then thwarted. Her apron strings were tied in knots. And her nose was somewhat warted.

She was no flapper of this day. Her hair it hung in braids; She was used to pitching hay, And tan, she wore for bracelets.

If this dear girl should fall in love, And seek to change her fashion; She's a sticker I am sure And not the one to mash on.

The sport lover who is satisfied in watching a wrestling match is satisfied easily.

Some men believe they are entirely self-made because they have forgotten all the help they received.

"I never tasted such good coffee as this"

That is the verdict of everyone who drinks Reliance for the first time.

Because Reliance

Coffee measures up completely to that first-of-all coffee tests—Smell. Reliance Coffee tastes just as good as it smells.

For years we have mellowed and roasted Reliance by a special process—a process unvarying and exacting. As a result, thousands of families have adopted it as the one particular brand that is served in their homes.

That same characteristic aroma stays right in it when you pour it in the cup. It stays because we roast it in to stay. And that is why it is different and better.

Tell your grocer to bring you an oval canister of Reliance Coffee—the coffee that tastes just as good as it smells.

THE BUREAUCRATS.

There is something about the antics of infant bureaucracy that suggests the laughable situation portrayed by the late Charlie Hoyt in his play called "The Milk White Flag." Theatre fans of the good old days will recall that the locus of the Hoyt play was a Central American country, and that the stage army consisted of a gold-laced and epauletted galaxy of officers commanding and countermanding one lone buck private.

Something of the same thing is still to be found in certain governmental bureaus notwithstanding the fact that the administration looks with disfavor on upstart bureaucrats. There is first the head of the bureau, who competes for publicity with the head of his department. The bureau head has his assistant. Then there is the chief of division, a title which has been multiplied until the compass is boxed, and each chief has his assistant. Next comes the chief of a particular region, which may comprise, say, Liberia and the Gold Coast of West Africa. The world is jigsawed to parcel out these regions, and each regional chief has his regional assistant. If the bureau or department is primarily interested in commerce, another division of titles is effectuated, and we have the chief of the hosiery division, the chief of the patent medicines division, the chief of the division of predigested skinfoods for superannuated cinema heroines, and each chief with his assistant understudy.

A certain Congressional committee, which was conducting a hearing on the subject of an additional appropriation for one of these bureaus recently—and that is about all they care to be heard upon—was listening with reverential awe to the arguments of one of these nondescript chiefs. It is reported that one sacrilegious member of the committee questioned the macaroni as to his own particular jurisdiction; eliciting the information, after a painful cross-examination, that it consisted of the said chief, a typewriter, several quires of stationery, a half dozen sheets of carbon paper and a colored messenger. The messenger seems to have been the only private in the entire bureau. Everyone else had a title of some sort over which to pen a flourishing signature.

A recent issue of the London Times contains an extensive account of the annual report of the "South-west Africa Company," a corporation formed to take over and handle business acquired by Great Britain under her mandate over the former German colony on the West Coast of the Dark Continent. From this report it is learned that the corporation took over practically all operating properties owned by "enemy" concerns. The British corporation has been operating the industries until they could be disposed of to advantage and also has on hand a lot of non-productive property soon to be sold. Among other things, it is stated that the corporation has 1,600,000 acres of land and many town lots, all of which will be sold. Great Britain has not only taken political control of the former German colony, but is making it a British colony in fact as well as in name, as shown by the report that the British population now outnumbers the German in the proportion of 10 to 7. Undoubtedly, in a very few years this proportion will be greatly increased to the advantage of Great Britain. Harbors are being improved and new industries established, all of which will add to British trade and national income. Nothing is ever said of this by advocates of American cancellation of the British debt to this country.

The popularity of out-of-door sports prevails in winter just as much as it does in summer, according to reports relative to skating parties and winter pastimes. There is just as much fun in good winter weather as there is in July. The hotels in the Adirondacks which kept open for the holidays did a thriving business, a big increase over what they did a year ago, proving that the popularity of snow shoeing and other winter sports is increasing. Of one thing there is no doubt. There is nothing more exhilarating than a clear cold day in winter.

The report relative to a break between some of the up-state Democratic leaders and Governor Smith because of a difference of opinion as to patronage is not accepted as the whole reason by some who listen to what is going on. It is said in some quarters that those who are snoring their teeth are doing so because of their opposition to some of the things the governor has promised to do as to water power and things like that. It may be. Governor Smith will find it impossible to please every Democrat the same as Governor Miller found it difficult to please every Republican.

Canada owns a considerable mileage of what are known as the "National Railways." Recently at a banquet in honor of the new president of the Canadian National Railway the hope was expressed that the roads would be taken out of politics and that they would become self-supporting. The United States has a railroad problem of its own, but not as difficult a problem as that over in Canada.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Do white-crowned and white-throated sparrows have head stripes alike?
2. Do water snakes breathe under water?
3. How does a grasshopper dislocate his leg next the body when the limb or foot is pinched?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Kindly tell whether love-apples are edible. Plants raised from seed given to us under that name are full of little fruit, but we do not know whether they are fit to eat.
"Love apple" or "Apple of love" is usually given a name to the tomato. We would not dare say whether the specimen in question is a tomato. It might be one of the small varieties like the cherry-tomato seen in markets in autumn, and popular for conserve.
2. Can beavers make trees fall in the direction they want?
If the tree happens to lean in that direction anyway, and the beaver gnawed into it evenly all the way round, it probably would fall in the "desired" direction; that is, toward, not away from the route by which the beaver might carry home his plunder. But as the beaver gnaws evenly anyway, even if the tree leans away from the desired direction, the tree will fall according to gravity.
3. As woodcocks have the eyes so far back on the head, how can they see their food?
They don't need to see it and couldn't even if the eyes were front, owing to a diet of grubs, earthworms, etc., secured by probing under woodmold and decaying leaves, or into soft mud. The woodcock's long bill not only digs, but being sensitive at the tip, locates the food by feeling.

C. E. WEEK
JAN. 28-FEB. 4

(Contributed.)

Forty-two years ago, on February 2, 1861, the first Christian Endeavor society was formed by the Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., in Williston Church, Portland, Maine. It was based upon a covenant, which is now called a pledge, and its work was organized through committees, just as today. Some of its methods have changed, but its basic principles are the same today as they were at the start.

What does Christian Endeavor stand for, pure home life, honest business life, loyal church life, patriotic national life, joyous social life, brotherhood with all mankind.

Christian Endeavor has been heartily received by practically all evangelical churches everywhere. It is still progressing. From July, 1921, to July 1, 1922, fully four thousand new societies were actually reported to the United Society of Christian Endeavor. This is more than eleven societies a day for twelve months, which is surely a fair rate of progress. Rumors about the decline in Christian Endeavor are not true, as to the following facts, answers that particular question most eloquently. On Sep. 1, 1919, there were 1,074 societies in Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas, Utah and Wyoming. Today there are 1,943 societies, which is a gain of eighty-one per cent. In Texas alone 362 new societies were organized last year. California organized 325 societies, Missouri 235, Maryland 156, Indiana, 82, Kansas 169, Minnesota 123, Ohio 164, New Jersey 153, Oklahoma 219, Pennsylvania 187, Michigan 100, Washington 70.

The one thing that has kept Christian Endeavor ahead is the young people's enthusiasm. So writes the Rev. James Kelly, a Scottish minister, in a British magazine, it is the one thing that impressed him was the abounding enthusiasm of the Endeavorers. That is something that no one can fail to notice.

Is Christian Endeavor trying to keep pace with the times? Christian Endeavor is constantly adopting new methods and is even willing to try experiments. There is, for instance, the graded Christian Endeavor idea, which is being tried out. Some of the localities where the churches are large, they have as many as six societies, one society for each grade in the Sunday school. Many other plans are under way to keep up with the times. Christian Endeavor is serving the church and the young people of all creeds and denominations.

Who's Who in Christian Endeavor. Dr. Francis E. Clark, Dr. Dan Poling, Edward P. Gales, Alvin J. Sharple, Dr. Ira Landreth, C. C. Hamilton, and many others too numerous to mention, all of whom spend much time in the advancement of the work. Also there are the state field secretaries, which spend full time service in interest of the work. New York field secretary is Charlton M. Sherwood, with his headquarters at Buffalo, N. Y.

In recognition of this forty-second anniversary of the beginning of Young People's work, Christian Endeavor week will be held January 28th to February 4th.

THE LEGEND OF THE SUN AND THE RAIN

MANY, many years ago—so many years that no man is able to count them—the god of the sun and the god of the rain had a quarrel. Each insisted that the other was lazy and did no work, and each was jealous of the other and declared that his own importance was great.

The god of the sun declared that without him the world would be desolate and that the rays of the sun were much more important than the rain-fall and the water. And the god of rain insisted that the sun was only a minor god and that next to the Manitou, himself, the rain god was the most important god in all the heavens.

So they quarreled and quarreled—these two gods—until finally their argument reached the ears of Manitou himself, who called them unto him. When the Manitou heard the cause of their argument he was angered, and he decided that an example should be made of the two gods, in order that they should know their true worth to the world and to the people who dwell there.

So he caused a test to be made and he called the two gods to him. First he turned to the god of rain and to him he said: "You have said that your importance is overwhelming, and that you are greater and more powerful than the sun and so this test will be made. And for six months I will set aside a certain section of land and there you will dwell and do all in your power to make the grass green and the crops grow. The sun shall not come near you, or disturb you, until the six months are up, and at the end of that time the sun god shall have his turn, and when the test is completed then shall we determine which is the greater and which is the most important."

So the Manitou designated a certain bit of land and there the rain god went to dwell, and each day he brought gentle showers to nourish the earth and the flowers and the trees and the grass.

But finally the water rose and covered the ground and there was no sun and no warmth to dry up the earth, and the flowers began to wither and the trees to die. And the tribes who dwelt in the land were unable to live there—and they had to move to other parts and the entire land became an ocean.

The rain god, seeing the desolation, became sad and repentant and went to the Manitou and asked that the sun be permitted to come in. But the Manitou declared that the test was not yet through and so he sent the sun to the spot and ordered the rain god away while the sun made the test.

With the coming of the sunshine the water disappeared, and once more the trees and the grass and the flowers flourished and the tribesmen came back again to their homes and every one was happy.

But as the days went on and there was no rain the trees and the grass turned brown and died; the flowers disappeared and even the beasts and the birds were unable to live—and died of thirst. And the land became a desert and the tribesmen once more were forced to leave and seek other spots where there was still food and water.

When the desert had been formed and the flowers and the trees had disappeared, then the Manitou called the two gods before him and to them he said:

"O gods of rain and sun, the test has been made, and now you know the strength which is yours. You who are gods are only servants of the world—and together you bring happiness and content and prosperity. But alone you are as nothing, for in this world each must do his part to aid the other—and there is none who is greater and none who is lesser than the others."

In order that you may remember this lesson I shall leave the desert as it is, barren and desolate—a warning to all of you. And when next you feel that you are all-important, or that your work is better or greater than that of your brother gods, look you to the desert in all its desolation and remember that only by working together can we bring happiness and prosperity to our red children who seek our protection."

The two gods, repentant, went their way and worked together, the one bringing the warmth and beauty of the sunshine; the other the gentle coolness and refreshment of the rain. From that day to this, have they worked together—but the desert is still there as a rebuke from the Manitou to his lesser children—and if you doubt this story go forth into the southlands and see for yourself.

Note.—This beautiful little legend is handed down by the Comanches, and gives their version of the creation of the desert. It exists in a slightly different version, with the Utes and other related tribes.

CHIMNEY FELLED; DAMAGE $6,500

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 5.—Turned from its course by a double wall of bricks, a 145 foot high brick chimney at the Albany Lumber and Planing Mill company's plant at Bridge and Mill streets, twisted on its base as it was being wrecked Thursday and crashed down on the roof of one of the buildings of the plant, narrowly missing the office of the lumber company, where several employees were working at the time.

Machinery and other property were damaged to an extent estimated at $6,500. Nobody was injured. Officials of the company estimate that it will require at least two months to repair the damages and remove the debris.

A TRIBUTE TO THE WORTH OF THE REV. JOSEPH MILLETT

A Man of the People Who Worked For The Joy of Working.
(Contributed).

The Rev. Joseph Millett, whose death at Feura Bush on Monday has been noted in The Freeman, was a man whose life calls for more than passing mention. Born in England, near Truro, in Cornwall, he came to America when 19 years of age and worked at his trade in the iron foundry at Cold Spring while pursuing his studies for the ministry. His first charge was at Fort Montgomery where his successful work attracted the attention of leading men in the New York Conference of the M. E. Church. Later he was pastor at Central Valley and other places in Orange county. He identified himself with the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and served as chaplain of the Grand Lodge. Later Mr. Millett entered the ministry of the Reformed Church, his first pastorate being at Minniskink, near Port Jervis. From Minniskink he came to the Reformed Church of Bloomingdale and St. Remy in 1890, remaining for 12 years. Thence he went to Sisseton, South Dakota, where he was the pastor of a Presbyterian church for several years, returning to Ulster county and accepting a call to the Reformed Church of Gardiner. From Gardiner Mr. Millett went to Ulster Park, thence to Tilton and from Tilton to the Reformed Churches of Jerusalem and Onesquehau in Albany county, which he served until his death. During his residence in Sisseton Mr. Millett married Miss Martina E. Riesenberger of Bloomingdale, who with two children, Samuel and Ruth, survive him.

A plain man of the people, without ostentation or false dignity, Mr. Millett was the friend of everyone. Always cheerful and full of human sympathy, he was at home among men of all classes and creeds. Never intruding the mere professionalism of his calling, he was welcomed and made friends wherever he went. A ready and impressive speaker, his services were in great demand at meetings of fraternal societies, Civil War veterans and on the occasion of public gatherings. He had for a number of years been an honorary member and one of the chaplains of the Old Twentieth Regiment Veterans' Association. He took an active interest in public affairs and in politics, being a loyal Republican but suffering no lines of political or religious creed to limit his friendship and kindly personal service. Knowing hundreds of men and addressing them by their first names, it was a mark of the respect in which he was held and the friendship that these men felt for him that he was known far and wide as "Joe Millett" rather than by any formal title.

"Joe" Millett will be missed as few men, clergymen or laymen, will be missed, for all through his life, "he went about doing good," without restraint or ceremony, regardless of the financial, religious or social standing of those he served and regardless of reward or the hope of reward.

Milk as Human Food.

One apology has to be made for milk as human food. It is low in iron. The prolonged, exclusive use of milk after early infancy tends to produce anemia, a lack of iron in the blood. Again, fruits, vegetables, especially green vegetables, and coarse cereals will make good this deficit. With all the evidence, in, then, it is impossible to escape the conviction that milk is not only a cheap food, but it is a food whose value can hardly be measured in terms of dollars and cents. The milk way is said to be the health way. Follow it.—Exchange.

Gross Insult.

Feeling they had a grievance over a certain matter, the weavers in a mill decided to send two of their number to interview the owner. He listened patiently to all they had to say, and then talked to them at length, telling them among other things that they were too fastidious. On getting back to the mill the others at once crowded round them to know how they had got on. "You can send somebody else next time," they said; "we're not going again." "Why, what's wrong?" "Well," came the reply, "when we had told all about it he called us two fat idiots."

Just Between Friends.

Two women met downtown. Both were in a hurry, so to avoid having to gossip they surprised each other by announcing that they had to get home to start dinner. "Call me up soon, dear," they exchanged as they parted. One of them circled the block and entered a movie show only three minutes late for the start of the feature film. She sat enraptured in the darkness for 15 minutes. Suddenly, her eyes accustomed to the gloom, she looked at the woman sitting next to her. It was the friend she had met on the street.—Detroit News.

TABLEAUX VIVANTS AT OPERA HOUSE

On the evening of January 15, Tableaux Vivants and a pantomime performance of the delightful old English poem, "The Mistletoe Bough," will be given at the Kingston Opera House for the newly formed "League of the Women of St. John's Parish." The participants will be the society leaders of the city and the people of St. John's Parish. It will be given to raise money for the new league to have to use for the parish or for other needs in the city.

The first half of the program will consist of Tableaux Vivants. Then there will be one or two special features of exceptional interest. The last half of the program will be the pantomime performance of "The Mistletoe Bough," the entire entertainment a postponed Twelfth Night performance, necessarily postponed because the Opera House could not be secured before.

TAXPAYERS INDIGNANT.

Assistance of Influential Men Might Have Changed Result.

Says The New Paltz Independent: There is much indignation over the great increase in the equalized valuation of the town of New Paltz made by our Board of Supervisors. The taxpayers of the town should have an opportunity to express their views as to whether they think it wise to take an appeal. To this end a meeting should be called.

No doubt great injustice has been done New Paltz, but can that wrong be righted? If a number of influential men had gone to Kingston to assist the supervisor perhaps the result on equalization would have been different but it is too late to talk about that now.
